

THE BIG EAR

To obtain best performance, the site selection involved factors such as steady wind velocities and moderate temperatures within a natural bowl near the equator that was away from populated areas and air lanes.

A scientist checks a sample on the catwalk and wave guide leading to centrally-suspended triangular support platform.

To assist atmospheric physicists, astronomers and other qualified scientists studying outer space, the Arecibo Ionospheric Observatory makes available its 2.5 million watt transmitter and 1,000-foot diameter reflector throughout the year.

The radar-radio telescope, whose primary function is the radar study of the earth's ionosphere, was conceived and designed by Professor William E. Gordon of the Cornell University School of Electrical Engineering.

After 3½ years of construction on 125 acres of mountainous countryside in Puerto Rico, the $9.3 million project was opened on November 1, 1963.

The largest such device in the world, it functions both through transmission of pulsed signals (radar) and listening to energy emitted by spatial radio sources (radio).

Operated by the University under a research contract with the Air Force Office of Scientific Research, the telescope is concurrently operating three subprograms dealing with outer space.

The primary program studies the ionosphere, measuring the electron density, temperature and influence on the earth's magnetic field of that region several hundred to several thousand miles high. Such studies are carried out to help scientists understand the influence of the ionosphere on earth's weather and communications.

The second program is planetary radar studies, where more precise recordings of radio echoes help determine orbits of planets and the moon. At the same time, surface contours can be measured in areas as small as 12 miles in diameter.

The third program is radio astronomy, where to date more than 3,000 radio sources have been located in space, while only 100 or so have been optically identified.

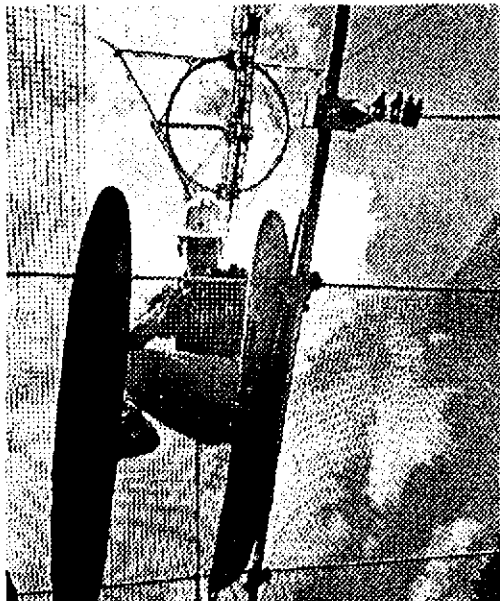

Recent discovery of spaced pulsations of regular occurrence is only one of the astronomical phenomena which the unit is capable of revealing.

Able to operate both day and night, in any weather, the telescope is capable of observing through a range of the electromagnetic spectrum far wider than the relatively narrow band of visible light to which current optical instruments are limited.

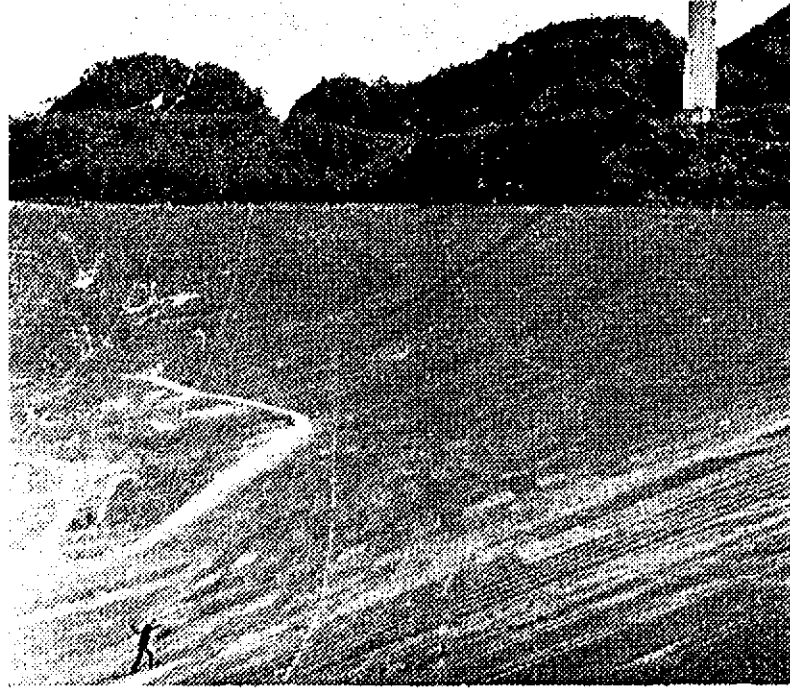

In this capacity, the "Big Ear" listens billions of light-years into space to seek what is past the known limits of the universe.

A workman stands on an anchor block unit supporting one of the three towers which suspend the triangular platform.

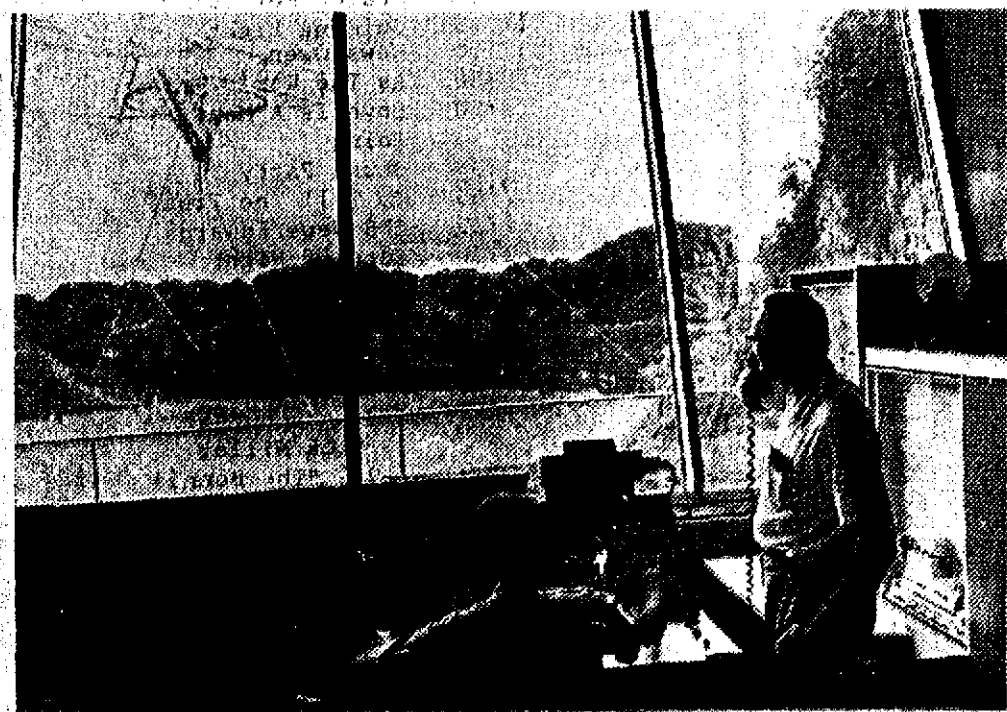

To properly maintain the curvature of the half-inch square wire mesh reflector, workmen move over its surface on water skis to distribute their weight.

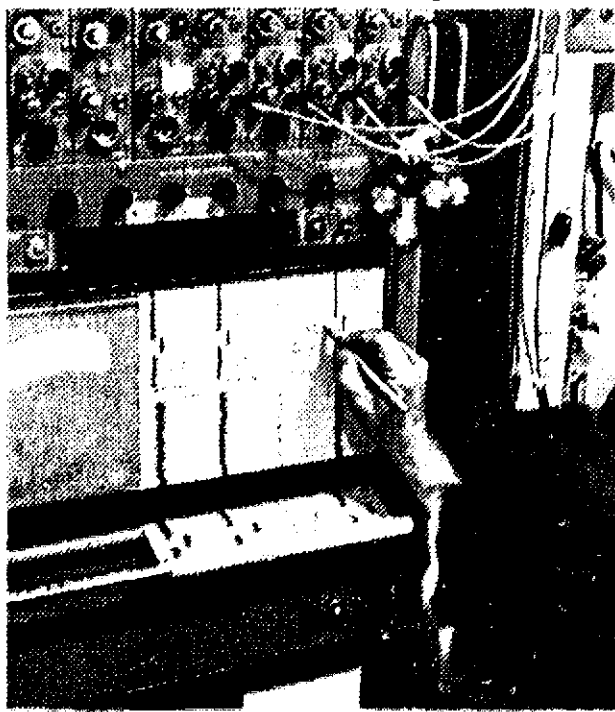

Weighting 207 tons, the 1,000-foot diameter bowl-shaped reflector is examined by a workman for damage or litter.

Two staff members check the linkage on the mesh-supporting cables above the reflector.

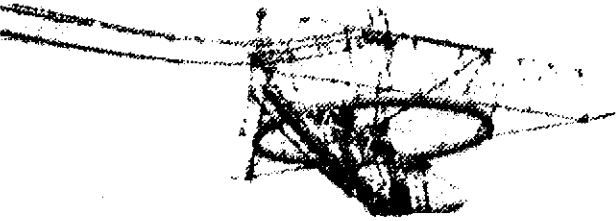

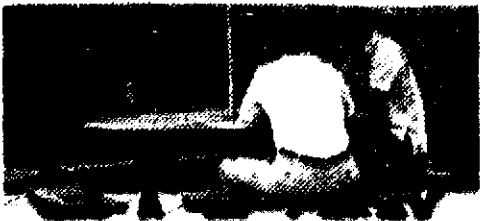

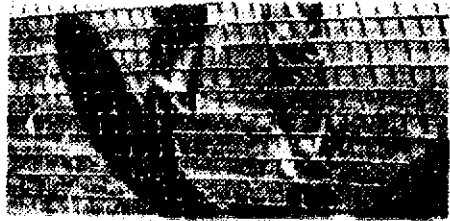

From the control room above the reflector, operators are in communication with men working in the antenna structure high above.

HELEN HELP US! by Helen Bottel

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT! This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off. Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper. THE GIRLS HEAR IT FROM THE GUYS Dear Helen: In response to your daughter's letter about Leap Year: She sounds pretty cool, but does she think us guys are stupid? We know all those tricks girls use. Here's the way I feel: I want to be friends with girls - like them all. When I find out some girl is after me, I turn and run, because Leap Year or not, I want to do the chasing. The reason boys don't date girls as much as they used to is because it costs a mint. One of my friends paid 50 bucks for the Prom this year! That included renting a tux, flowers, dinner, tickets, something to eat afterwards, gas, etc. - VOICE OF THE MALE Dear Helen: At least Kathy gave us fair warning of girls' conniving schemes. She said the eager male victims are usually not worth the chase, but want to get caught, and usually are. We, the brave American bachelor-type males, don't want to get "trapped" by cunning females, so we leave them for the weak. So now, men ready, aim, retreat! Run, run, run, and never get caught! Go out and trap the girl who isn't chasing you, before she grabs another guy. - DON AND RICK Dear D. and R.: Famous last words! Ever since Eve gave Adam "appleplex," girls have been allowing the boys of their choice to "chase" them right up to the altar. But keep your illusions if they make you happy. - H

Dear Helen: Here's another guy's view of the dating game. A new girl transferred to our school. She was cute and friendly, so I called her a couple of times to ask for a date. Each time she had to baby-sit or something. Then we were all at a party and each guy there asked her to dance, but she steadfastly refused. This year I found out that her folks wouldn't let her date, and she didn't know how to dance, but she was too embarrassed to tell the truth. The result was she got the reputation of being stuck-up. Guys can understand about strict parents a lot better than they can a flat turn-down. - FOR MORE TRUTHFUL GIRLS Dear Helen: This is in answer to "Lonely Teen-age Girl, who has trouble getting dates, and thinks it may be because she doesn't 'put out.'" I can tell you that about 95 per cent of the male population have absolutely no respect for a fast and loose girl. Sure, we ask them out on dates but we just use them and they mean nothing to us. If a girl wants to get a boy friend, she must gain his respect by showing she isn't a cheap broad. Many girls I once respected are becoming such and it makes me sick. I sure wish I could meet Lonely Teen-age Girl. - JOHN Dear John: I do too, but you're

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MRS. THOMAS FRANKLIN (MAC) MCLARTY

Miss Donna Kay Cochran and Thomas Franklin (Mack) McLarty III were married in a candlelight ceremony at 8:00 o'clock Friday evening, June 14, at the Beech Street Baptist Church of Texarkana, Arkansas with the Reverend Milton E. DuPriest officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil R. Cochran of Hot Springs. She is a graduate of the University of Arkansas where she was president of her sorority, Chi Omega. Her grandparents are Mrs. Henry A. Sims and the late Mr. Sims and the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Cochran, all of Texarkana. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Franklin McLarty Jr. of Hope. He was president of the student body at the University of Arkansas and his fraternity is Sigma Chi. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Franklin McLarty of Hope and the late Dr. and Mrs. Francis Berry Hesterly of Prescott. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion. A multi-tiered curved candelabrum arranged on a var-level held tall pink burning candles. Pink gladiolus, peonies and chrysanthemums were arranged on each level creating a dimensional effect to mark the place of the ceremony. A matching pair of sunbursts of pink blossoms were placed on either side of the central arrangement. Spiral candelabra highlighted with garlands of greenery and cascades of pink flowers were placed on either side of the dais. Other groupings of multi-branch candelabra effectively positioned were linked to the central arrangement with garlands of greenery studded with pink florets. Tall thirty-three candelabras were placed high in the choir loft. Each of the candelabra was highlighted with greenery, pink flowers and held burning votive candles. The couple knelt on a pink satin prie-dieu while Mrs. Earl Jones, Jr. sang "God Who Touchest Earth With Beauty." Pews for the families and honored guests were marked with single candelabra holding burning pink candles and caught with pink ribbons. Seating wedding guests were Stuart Sims of Little Rock, cousin of the bride; John Fitton of Harrison; Phil Verrill of Dallas; Bill Ebbert, Jr. of Jonesboro; and Bill Woodyard and Bobby Roney both of Little Rock. Prior to the wedding, Mrs. Bill Schroeder provided a program of traditional nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Earl Jones, Jr. as she sang "All for You." The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her dress of candlelight silk organza was designed on Empire lines, Hand-run Alencon lace beaded in pearls and crystals created a high scalloped neckline and brief sleeves. Motifs of the beaded lace were appliques on the bodice and controlled skirt. The back fullness formed a sweeping chapel train. Her mantilla veil was of imported French net and Alencon lace falling from a small pillbox. The bride's bouquet was fashioned of miniature pink roses and stephanotis styled in colonial manner showered with stephanotis blossoms stop a white Bible, which was a gift to her from her grandfather, the late Charles M. Cochran, on her third birthday. The traditional "something old, new, borrowed and blue, with a sixpence in her shoe" completed her ensemble. She carried an heirloom point lace handkerchief made by Mrs. W. C. Dudley's mother. The bride was attended by Mrs. Rick McNair of Little Rock as her matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Bonnie Jamison, Miss Marilyn Powers, Miss Jeannette Cobb of Ashdown; Miss Cheryl Morris of Little Rock; Miss Sue Walk of El Dorado; Miss Sara Watt of Ruston, Louisiana; and Miss MaryNell Branch of Hope junior bridesmaid. They wore floor length pale pink dotted swiss. The Empire waistline was marked by pink and green flower embroidery. A cage effect was created by back fullness flowing from the neckline. They carried a single pink Victorian Rose centered with a votive candle. Foliage and pink satin with miniature pink roses caught in streamers accented their bouquets. Their head-dresses were of pink rosebuds. Father of the bridegroom Thomas Franklin McLarty, Jr. was his son's best man. Groomsman were: Bobby Goodyear of Newport; Stark Ligon of Little Rock; John Sloan of Lake Village; Joe D. Heslep of Helena; Jack Caldwell and Richard McDowell both of Hope; and Berry McLarty, the bridegroom's brother, junior groomsman. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Cochran chose a floor-length dress of deep pink chiffon. A self bow marked the shoulder with soft back fullness creating a demi-train effect. She wore a matching coil and a pale pink orchid corsage. Mrs. McLarty, mother of the bridegroom, wore a floor-length jade peau satin original fashioned with a sleeveless empire silhouette. The draped back fullness fell in a soft fold bustle effect. The neckline of the beaded bodice and was softly rounded. In her hair she wore a French loop bow of the satin peau and a corsage of white symydium orchids. Following the wedding ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Cochran entertained with a reception in the church parlors. Throughout the reception Johnny Jackson of North Little Rock provided music at the piano. The bride's table, covered with a floor length pink chiffon cloth, was centered with a three-tiered pink bride's cake. At either end of the table were matching silver epergnes holding pink snapdragons, pink Aristocrat roses and carnations in various shades of pink. Pink candles in silver candelabra flanked the cake. Centering the groom's table, from which coffee and chocolate cake were served, was a silver epergne holding deep rose carnations and snapdragons. The bridal registry was placed on a table covered with a floor length pink chiffon cloth which held a memory candle. Assisting in serving were: Mrs. Larry Watkins of Little Rock; Miss Louise Campbell of Russellville; Miss Judy Hersey of Farmington; Miss Ticksa Giliam of El Dorado; Miss Diane Ellis of Hope; Miss Julie Nelson, Miss Sissy McGuire, Miss Ann Patterson all of Texarkana; Mrs. Spencer Armour of Dallas; Mrs. Dwight Curtis of Granville; Mrs. Gordon Hopkins, Texarkana; Mrs. Olin Mitchell Jr. and Mrs. Rodney Thrash, both of Ashdown; and the following aunts of the bride: Miss Dovie Hopkins, Misses Charlene, Ruth and Maurine Cochran, Mrs. Millard Wood, Mrs. Harold Brown and Mrs. Henry T. Sims. Pink rice bags were distributed by little Misses Marilyn and Cissy Mitchell, Miss Tammy Thrash and Rodney Wood Thrash, all of Ashdown. For travel the bride chose a costume suit of green silk linen with yellow accents. She wore matching accessories and a single gardenia corsage. After a wedding trip to Acapulco and Las Vegas, the couple will be at home at Murray Hills apartments in Fayetteville, Arkansas. BARBS He thinks of himself as a pillar of the community, but his wife says he's called that because the drugstore would fall down if he weren't found leaning against the wall most any evening. As a rule, broad-minded men aren't popular with their wives.

One of the things holding many marriages together is the high cost of divorce.

Book 4 at Page 28 in said recorder's office; and,
WHEREAS, The location of the street which had been previously conveyed to the City by the said Thurman W. Ridling and Clara W. Ridling, his wife, was changed on said plat and a new street designated as Confederate Drive as shown thereon was dedicated to the City of Hope, Arkansas, for the use and benefit of the public as a public street by and with the approval of the City Planning Commission and the City Board of Directors in lieu of and in exchange for the old street designated by the said Thurman W. Ridling and Clara W. Ridling, his wife; and,

WHEREAS, That part of the street conveyed by Thurman W. Ridling and Clara W. Ridling, his wife, not included within Confederate Drive as shown on the plat in Miscellaneous Record Book 4 at Page 28 is useless to the City and would be a burden on the City to maintain, and it was agreed by all parties at the time the above referred to plat was filed that the unused portions of the original street should be vacated and abandoned and the new street accepted in lieu thereof; and,

WHEREAS, Pursuant to due notices as required by law, the City Board of Directors has previously to this date heard all persons desiring to be heard on the question and has ascertained that the portion of the street herein after described has never been opened or used by the Public as a street; that Fred O. Ellis and Julia L. Ellis, his wife, and Wade Gilbert and Dorothy Gilbert, his wife, being the owners of all the lands abutting on that part of the street to be vacated hereby, have filed their petition with the Board of Directors praying for such abandonment; that the matter has been reviewed by the City Planning Commission and approved; that the public interest and welfare will not be adversely affected by the abandonment and vacation of such portion of such street:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the Board of Directors of the City of Hope, Arkansas:

SECTION 1. That the City of Hope, Arkansas, hereby releases and vacates and abandons all its rights, together with the rights of the Public generally, in and to all that part of a certain street conveyed to the City of Hope, Arkansas, by Thurman W. Ridling and Clara W. Ridling, his wife, by deed dated January 7, 1965, now of record in the Recorder's Office within and for Hempstead County, Arkansas, in Record Book 296 at Page 377, except such part thereof as is in Confederate Drive as dedicated and platted by Fred O. Ellis et al in the dedication and plat of Green Acres Addition to the City of Hope, Arkansas, filed for record August 17, 1966, at 8:00 o'clock, A.M., and now of record in said recorder's office in Miscellaneous Record Book 4 at Page 28.

SECTION 2. A copy of this Ordinance shall be duly certified by the City Clerk and then filed and recorded in the office of the Recorder of Hempstead County, Arkansas.

SECTION 3. All ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed; and this Ordinance shall be in force and effect from and after its passage and approval.

PASSED AND APPROVED this 11th day of June, 1968, Published in Hope Star on the 15th day of June, 1968.

Today's hand was played in a rubber bridge game at New York's Cavendish Club. Barbara Kashmar, who sat South, was rather disappointed when she saw the dummy. It represented just about the worst possible raise, and she noted there were problems in each of the four suits.

There was an automatic correct spade play and Barbara made it by playing dummy's nine. When East won with the king, one hurdle appeared to have been taken care of. It looked as if she could finesse the spade jack later on and get rid of one of her minor suit losers on the ace.

East returned the three of hearts and a lot of players would have gone wrong at this point in the proceedings by playing the eight, but Barbara played the queen. West won with the king and led a trump back. Barbara won in her hand with an honor so as to retain the nine as an entry to dummy.

She cashed her ace and king of clubs next and led a spade to dummy's jack. If East had produced the queen, Barbara would have been down at least two tricks, but the jack held. Now Barbara was able to discard her three of clubs on the ace of spades. Then she led a club from dummy and ruffed high. This dropped East's queen. The eight of hearts was led next to put dummy in with the nine, and two of her three diamonds went on the last two clubs.

Sort of a humdrum hand, but look at all the chances Barbara had to go wrong. We will concede that the nine of spades at trick one was auto-

PULL UP A CHAIR

By L. W. MEACHUM
in the Batesville Guard

I had an awful dream last night. Usually, I can't remember much of the details of a dream. I didn't sleep well. Guess I am like a hound dog baying at a full moon. After a couple of hours of sleep, I woke up and could not go back to sleep. I got up, found a magazine, propped two pillows back of my head and started reading.

It was after I read myself to sleep that I had the dream. I heard a knock on the front door and upon answering it found a bedraggled 19-year-old boy sitting on the edge of the porch. He seemed mild mannered enough and not worried about his situation which was as follows: His parents lived in Des Moines, Iowa. (I had been listening to that radio station before going to sleep). He was without funds. When questioned he seemed "bla." He had not finished high school, had wandered south looking for work, was dirty, and needed a haircut.

I was afraid of him, afraid of bringing him into the house and putting him to bed. In the old days I could have told him to sleep in the barn, but how is a person going to sleep on baled hay stuffed to the roof? I was afraid that he might kill the wife and me after we went back to sleep. (Incidentally, that is the reason for not picking up hitchhikers on the highway). I thought of taking him in the car to a motel for the night with the idea that I might help him the next morning. However, I woke up at about that stage of the dream.

Today, I ask myself if I have absorbed some of the hysteria which is sweeping our country. Instead of dreaming about the click of fruit jars which indicates that the tops have sealed on canned vegetables, or dreaming about winning a blue ribbon with one of my horses at a horse show, or about getting my winter's hay in the barn without a drop of rain on it, I have to become involved with all the violence which is disrupting the nation.

Not all the cause for anxiety about the "generation gap" takes place in the larger cities. I hardly know how to talk to high school dropouts whose hair hangs almost to their shoulders, who show me two pistols hidden under a truck seat, and who dash up and down the road burning rubber on their rear wheels, with a short exhaust pipe giving out with a roaring noise.

The magazine which I was reading last night had articles about the gun control law. Is American society sick? Who will the young revolutionists have as a leader now that Bobby Kennedy is dead? "Discord the world over — more revolutions!" Can Israel survive? Who killed the taxi drivers? Will James Earl Ray live to stand trial? And how long can Saigon hold out?

Kenneth Galbraith, economist, former government official, and a leading spokesman for U.S. "liberals," recently stated that "the student militance in America and abroad constitutes a 'world-wide revolutionary movement.'" He further stated that "we are in the beginning stages of the questioning of goals of the industrial system."

President Johnson, in a Texas Christian University commencement address on May 29, characterized the rebellious students across the nation as "young totalitarians."

It seems to me that parents are to blame for not disciplining their children when they were small. As I remember, after WW II, disciplining began to slack off as youngsters began to storm our beaches over Easter holidays.

Someone has said that American society has had a taste of the affluent benefits of the industrial system and that now this society wants a full meal of all its output every time it sits down to the table.

I wonder what has happened to the truth of the old saying: College boy in a letter to his father, "No fun, no mon", your son." Dad's reply, "Too bad, so bad, your dad."

ONE HOUR'S FUEL for this new oxygen-natural gas burner could heat an average home for three years. World's largest of its type, it produces 480 million BTUs an hour, enabling steelmakers to increase usable scrap content about 43 per cent.

PARADISE LOST is regained. Five of the 10 scenes chiseled by 15th-century sculptor Lorenzo Ghiberti for the "Gates of Paradise" door in Florence, Italy, fell from their places during the 1966 flood. Left, now, however, the famous bronze panels have been restored and replaced, right.

Hippies Meet in Colorado, Predict End

SUGAR LOAF, Colo. (AP) — John the Freak, surrounded by the magnificent scenery of the Colorado Rockies, added molasses to his pancake batter and said "let's pray to God" that California doesn't slide into the sea.

He gave himself the name and it was the only one he used. Last names aren't heard much among the hippies who have flocked to Sugar Loaf Mountain.

Some say they came to pray for peace.

Some say they came to get close to nature.

Several say they came because they believe the asteroid Icarus will crash into the earth and the mountains offer refuge.

There could be tidal waves and earthquakes; California could vanish into the ocean, and even the lost continent Atlantis might reappear, they say.

Astronomers' predictions are less startling. They agree Icarus will swing by the earth today, but they say it will be 3.9 million miles away. They are confident there will be no collision.

"I don't know if it will hit or not, but it could," said John, who appeared to lead one camp of about a dozen girls and women, boys and men, at about the 8,000-foot level.

A little farther along a rocky, primitive trail, about 20 others, all hospitable, were camped with plastic and branch covered lean-tos, tents and sleeping bags.

Lock and Dam Dedication

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — The D. D. Terry Lock and Dam dedication has been tentatively set for Oct. 4 and there are indications President Johnson will attend, the head of the Arkansas River Basin Association said Thursday.

Robert Nabholz of Conway, association president, announced the target date for the dedication.

Charles Maynard of Little Rock, head of the dedication committee, said the Post Office Department has approved a special stamp to commemorate the occasion. Efforts are being made, he said, to mint a commemorative half dollar.

White House aide James R. Jones, special assistant to the President, said Johnson "will do everything possible to participate in the dedication ceremony."

Egypt-Israel Forces Fight

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli and Egyptian forces fought an artillery, mortar and machine gun duel across the Suez Canal for 2 hours and 20 minutes today — the first clash in the area in three weeks.

An Israeli military spokesman said one Israeli was wounded in the fighting.

According to Tel Aviv's version, the Egyptians opened up with light arms at 10:30 a.m. and then brought up artillery an hour later to bombard Israeli troops at Port Taufiq, at the southern end of the canal.

The canal, blocked and deserted since the Middle East war a year ago, has been relatively calm since last October. That month Port Taufiq, occupied by Israeli troops, and Port Suez across the 120-yard wide waterway in Egypt, exploded in a daylong battle.

Glassboro Revisited After a Year

By BOB HARING
Associated Press Writer
GLASSBORO, N.J. (AP) — Glassboro marks its place in history with the same country college calm which helped get it selected for a historic meeting of world leaders a year ago.

No strident signs or gaudy souvenir stands point the way to Hollybush, the mansion where President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin conferred for nearly 10 hours last June 23 and 25.

A visitor can drive past the mansion without realizing it. He cannot enter without an invitation, because it is the private home of Dr. Thomas E. Robinson, president of Glassboro State College.

For a few hours on June 4, the nation's attention was focused again on Glassboro when President Johnson returned to the campus to deliver the commencement address.

Glassboro is off most regular tourist routes, although it is just 20 miles from Philadelphia. Yet "quite a few" travelers pause to ask the way from U.S. Rt. 322 to Hollybush, a service station operator noted.

History ultimately will decide how important the Glassboro meeting was.

But in late June of 1967, the world seemed to be seething toward a lethal boiling point. The Oldie East smoldered from the Arab-Israeli war two weeks earlier.

Kosygin had flown to America to appear at the United Nations, denouncing Israel and the United States.

With crisis at its most critical, the Hollybush summit was arranged.

Security Men Have a New, Grimmer Look

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Hovering conspicuously wherever the candidates appear, security men have given a new, grimmer look to the chase for the presidential nominations.

Country music was part of the come-on in Atlanta Thursday at a George Wallace rally, but no one got into the auditorium without passing Secret Service agents and other security men at the doors.

Anyone carrying anything larger than an ordinary-sized purse was searched.

In other parts of the country there were these other touches of the new look:

—A 27-man security detail blanketed Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., as he left a New York hotel.

—Secret Service men were on each floor of the Tulsa, Okla., hotel for a gathering of most of the nation's Republican governors. State troopers by the dozen also were on hand, as were Tulsa policemen.

—Gov. Ronald Reagan of California was heavily shielded by police as he left a $100-a-plate dinner in Indianapolis. All of the auditorium's doors were locked during his address.

McCarthy, campaigning for the first time since the Kennedy slaying, urged the nation to look deep for the ills that need healing.

"Americans in these days are concerned with the wave of violence, of which the assassinations of political leaders is the most striking symptom," he said in a speech before the Fellowship of Reconciliation in New York.

With the death of Kennedy, McCarthy's only rival for the Democratic nomination is Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who has not yet resumed campaigning.

In the Republican race, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York was at the Tulsa governors' meeting today, looking for support. His aides said they would not press for public commitments.

Twenty of the nation's 26 GOP governors were at the gathering but many were playing it close to the chest when it came to speaking for either Rockefeller or his principal opponent, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Some governors said they wanted to use the meeting to promote the idea of a ticket headed by Rockefeller with Reagan as the vice presidential candidate. Reagan is also present at the conference.

Nixon planned to be the commencement speaker today for daughter Tricia's graduating class at Finch College in New York City. Tricia has a job waiting as soon as she gets her degree. She'll join her father's campaign team.

No Matter What You Call Him, Tomorrow Is Day for Father

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

Tomorrow is the day we honor our paternal parent, whether we call him Dad, Pop, Daddy, Pater, or Father. For some reason, the name, Father, is rarely heard in our day except as a matter of reference, such as "my father" works at such-and-such location.

Yet, Father's Day is the established name for His Day. And for very good reason. The word, father, carries with it a tone of dignity and respect.

Why else do we glorify our Father God, who made Heaven and Earth? Or feel a surge of pride at the mention of George Washington, the Father of Our Country? Or give respect to anyone who is the Father of an idea or invention to benefit mankind?

There is something about the name, Father, that tongues first learning to speak find difficult. Maybe as the "easy way out" we fall back on easier syllables and, somehow, never grow out of the habit.

If the truth be known, there are probably very few fathers — especially American fathers — who would even answer to the name if it were used. Our civilization is replete with expressions that poke fun at him, comic strips make him laughable, and the attitude, too often, by the general public is that of a joke.

He takes it with a the-joke's-on-me laugh, in most cases. That's because he's good-natured and, besides, he has more important things to do than being petty. Though he might not realize it, that is a manly attribute.

It has been said that "fathers are what give daughters away to other men who aren't nearly good enough, so they can have grandchildren who are smarter than anybody's."

"Fathers make bets with insurance companies about who will live the longest. One day they lose, and the bet's paid off to the part of them they leave behind."

"A father never feels worthy of the worship in a child's eyes. He's never quite the hero his daughter thinks, never quite the man his son believes him to be, and this worries him, sometimes. So he works too hard to try and smooth the rough places for those of his own who will follow him."

The late Gen. Douglas MacArthur once wrote the following Father's Prayer: Build me a son, O Lord, who will be strong enough to know when he is weak, and brave enough to face himself when he is afraid; one who is proud and unbending in honest defeat, and humble and gentle in victory.

Build me a son whose wishbone should be a son who will know and that to know himself is the foundation stone of knowledge.

Lead him, I pray, not in the path of ease and comfort, but under the stress and spur of difficulties and challenge. Here let him learn to stand up in the storm; here let him learn compassion for those who fail.

Build me a son whose heart will be clear, whose goal will be high; a son who will master himself before he seeks to master other men; who will learn to laugh, yet never forget to weep; one who will reach into the future, yet never forget the past.

And after all these things are his, add, I pray, enough of a sense of humor, so that he may always be serious, yet never take himself too seriously. Give him humility, so that he may always remember the simplicity of true greatness, the open mind of true wisdom, the meekness of true strength.

Then, I, his father, will dare to whisper, "I have not lived in vain."

Then, I, his father, will dare to whisper, "I have not lived in vain."

Dr. Spock Is Convicted of Conspiracy

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Baby doctor Benjamin Spock, Yale University Chaplain William Sloane Coffin Jr., and two others have been convicted of conspiracy to counsel young men to evade the draft. A fifth defendant was acquitted.

"My main defense," Spock said, "was that I believed a citizen must work against a war he feels is contrary to international law. The court has decided to feel differently."

After the conviction Friday night by an all-male federal jury, Spock's counsel, Leonard Boudin, and defense attorneys for the other three said there would be an appeal to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The four men were expected to carry their appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court, if necessary, as part of their opposition to the Vietnam war.

Convicted with Coffin and the 65-year-old pediatrician were Michael Ferber, 23, a Harvard graduate student, and Mitchell Goodman, 44, a writer and teacher from Temple, Maine.

Marcus Raskin, 34, a Washington research director, was found innocent by the jury after seven hours and 20 minutes of deliberation. The trial began May 20 and lasted four weeks.

Raskin walked from the 12th floor courtroom in federal courthouse, his head down and tears in his eyes.

"I feel very good for myself," he said in a choked voice, "and badly for the others."

Raskin's lawyer, Calvin Bartlett, maintained during the trial that Raskin was not part of any conspiracy and barely knew his co-defendants.

U.S. District Judge Francis J. W. Ford ordered Spock and the other three freed in personal recognition until sentencing on July 10. They face maximum sentences of five-year prison terms and $10,000 fines.

The jury, in a list of findings on specific charges made in the indictment, found that Spock and the other three conspired to counsel, aid and abet Selective Service registrants to refuse or evade duties under the Selective Service Act.

"My belief has always been," Coffin said, "that the issues we wanted to bring before the court were never argued. That's the legality and constitutionality of the war and the draft. Perhaps the appeals level is the place to do it."

Later, at a news conference on the first floor of the courthouse Coffin added, "I speak for all. If this is a conspiracy, we have the lightning bolt confused with the lightning."

Coffin added he was "absolutely delighted" that Raskin was acquitted and described the acquittal as "an important victory for the First Amendment," which guarantees free speech.

"If the jury had found all five of us guilty there would have been the danger of an epidemic of indictments against people who are protesting the draft and the war."

B52 Bombers Strike Cong Near Saigon

By ROBERT D. OHMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — American B52 bombers pounded Viet Cong infiltration routes with 150 tons of bombs today while ground forces searched for rocket firing sites around the perimeters of Saigon.

The rolling thunder of 5000-pound bombs was clearly heard in the capital as the bombers made two strikes about 20 miles northwest of the city. The ground forces fanned out within the enemy's seven-mile rocket range of Saigon.

U.S. officials said the allied sweeps around Saigon have turned up more Russian-made 122 mm rockets than have been fired at the city. Since Jan. 29, they said, about 267 rockets have hit in or near Saigon, and in the same period allied soldiers found 304 of the six-foot rockets in enemy ammunition caches.

Twenty enemy mortar rounds fell along the Kinh Doi Canal on the southern fringe of Saigon, wounding two policemen and six South Vietnamese civilians.

About 60 Chinese-made 107mm rockets struck the big Bien Hoa airbase 15 miles north of Saigon, but U.S. spokesmen said they inflicted no casualties or damage.

In the northern provinces, a Viet Cong raiding party entered the Vinh, the refugee camp 15 miles south of Da Nang and abducted 60 persons after setting fire to 20 tents. A U.S. Marine spokesman said the civilians presumably would be used as a labor force.

Enemy gunners also zeroed in on supply points and an airport. The U.S. Marine command reported that twenty-two 122mm rockets hit the sprawling supply base northwest of Da Nang, inflicting light to moderate damage. Fifty artillery rounds inflicted light damage on the Cua Viet supply point six miles below the demilitarized zone.

One civilian was killed and 20 others were wounded when 32 mortar rounds slammed into the Quang Ngai City airport, 50 miles south of Da Nang.

After five weeks of bombardment, the center of Saigon has not been hit by rockets since Tuesday despite threats broadcast by North Vietnam's official news agency that the Viet Cong will continue rocket attacks on the capital and the northern suburb of Gia Dinh.

Because of the shelling, the Australian and Japanese embassies advised their nonessential civilian residents to leave Saigon. But the United States and France, which have the largest number of civilians in South Vietnam, did not issue evacuation notices.

The U.S. Command has termed the Viet Cong shelling of Saigon "random and indiscriminate," designed to terrorize the population.

In the air war, U.S. planes flew 82 missions over North Vietnam's panhandle Friday, compared to the 135 and 136 strikes flown the previous two days. Navy spokesmen said one of the carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin was on a routine one-day "stand-down" and did not launch any strikes.

Pilots said they damaged two large oil storage areas near the city of Vinh and Mu Gia Pass, and hit trucks, highways and bridges which supply enemy troops in South Vietnam.

U.S. Hunger Charge Is Questioned

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One candidate for Congress in the 1st District has questioned the method federal officials used in deciding that hunger and malnutrition exist in four Arkansas counties, all of them in the 1st District.

Mayor Clyde Andrews of Marianna, seeking the Democratic nomination for Congress, told a Lepanto Rotary Club meeting that the method used in compiling the federal report "leaves a great deal to be desired for a so-called factual report."
